

Put Out to Pasture

Daniel 4; Prophets and Kings, pp. 514-521

Would you like to live in a field with cows and eat grass? A king once spent seven years living among the animals. This is how it happened . . .

King Nebuchadnezzar was bothered by the dream of the great image. He was flattered and pleased that Babylon was first. But it worried him that other kingdoms came after his kingdom.

Then he had another strange dream. Nebuchadnezzar's wise men could not interpret the dream. So once again Nebuchadnezzar sent for Daniel. He told Daniel about his dream. This is what he told Daniel:

"I dreamed of a large tree in the middle of a plain. It was enormous and seemed to reach up to heaven. The leaves were beautiful and the fruit plentiful. The birds made their home in its branches. And the animals sheltered under it. Then suddenly I saw a Holy One. I heard a loud voice from heaven saying: 'Cut down the tree. Trim off the branches. Tell the animals to run away and the birds to find another home. But leave the stump in the field and put a brass and iron band around it.'

"The voice continued: 'Let him be drenched with dew. Let him live with the animals. Let his mind be like an animal until seven times pass by.

"I have made this decision so that the living may know that God is ruler of all the kingdoms. And He gives them to whom He wants to.'"

When Daniel heard the dream, he was troubled. The meaning was plain to him. And it was not a pleasant message to deliver to the king. The king might become angry. But Nebuchadnezzar tried to reassure him. He just wanted to know what the dream meant.

Daniel knew that God wanted him to speak the truth. So he told the king that his dream was a warning from God. He explained that Nebuchadnezzar was the tree. He had become great, strong, and powerful. He ruled over many places. However, God saw his pride. If Nebuchadnezzar did not acknowledge Him as Lord, something strange and terrible would happen. He would become insane and live in the fields like an animal for seven years. At the end of that time he would become king again.

Daniel encouraged Nebuchadnezzar to turn away from his sins and his pride. Daniel told Nebuchadnezzar he should do what was right. He urged the king to be kind to those in need and then maybe this vision wouldn't happen.

A year later Nebuchadnezzar was walking on the roof of the royal palace. He looked at all the wonderful things around him. He swelled with pride. He smiled to himself. "Is not this great Babylon that I have built by my power and for the glory of my majesty?"

No sooner had he said these words than he heard a voice from heaven. "Nebuchadnezzar, you will become like an animal.

You will live out in the fields for seven years. At the end of that time you will acknowledge me as Lord. Then you will become king again."

It was just as God had said. He lived outside in the field like an animal for seven years. At the end of the seven years Nebuchadnezzar became sane again. He praised God as the ruler of the earth. His advisors and nobles came to talk with him. And he was made king once more.

It was hard for Daniel to deliver God's message to Nebuchadnezzar. But God was with him. And God will be with you as you serve Him wherever you are.

S A B B A T H

DO Serving others is a way of serving God. Help with Sabbath dinner and clean up.

DO Nebuchadnezzar was like the tall tree in his dream. If possible, go for a walk with your family. What is the tallest tree you can see?

DO Collect some leaves and press them by placing them between pages of an old telephone book. Save them for Thursday.

SING Sing songs about beautiful things God made and thank Him for them.

S U N D A Y

READ Read and discuss Daniel 4:1-18 for family worship today.

DO Count the number of trees around your house, or visit a park. How many varieties of trees can you find?

DO Take paper and crayon. Hold the paper against the bark of a tree and rub with the crayon. What happens?

DO Cut out leaf shapes and write one word of the memory verse on each leaf. Be sure to include the reference. Teach the verse to your family.

PRAY Thank God for variety and for trees.
